

TAKING OFF

Nothing lifts your spirits as a region like being the hub of activity in the face of strong economic headwinds.

So, when the Center for Michigan reported that Kalamazoo and Battle Creek stood out over the past decade as Michigan's most prosperous communities, a new airport terminal made all the sense in the world.

The future is bright in Southwestern Michigan, thanks to the insightful and courageous determination of business leaders, elected officials and citizens who believed in the dawn of a new day.

Safe. Simple. Convenient.
